Legal information notice for data collection forms

The notarial practice is the data controller for the processing of its clients' data, for the purposes of carrying out its notarial activities, in particular the formalities relating to deeds. Providing this data is mandatory in order to enable the notaire to carry out the required due diligence. Certain descriptive and economic data may be used to populate a property database declared to the French Data Protection Authority (Commission Nationale de l'Informatique et des Libertés - CNIL), for the production of information in the public interest. Personal data collected is processed in strict compliance with professional confidentiality and is not transferred to third parties other than the authorised partners of the notarial practice and those contributing to the production of statistics in the public interest. In accordance with Chapter V (Section 2) of French Law no. 78-17 of 6 January 1978 on Information Technology and Civil Liberties, you have a right of access to data concerning you, a right to object (except where regulations do not permit the exercise of that right), and rights to modify, correct, update and erase data by contacting the secretariat of the notarial practice, which will provide any information required for this purpose.
